ultant rush down the stope of the stream.

Recall was blown, but the boy who made the bugle sing from his post in the golden wheatfield was calling to deaf ears. There was no stopping the triumphant rush of the doughboys, who, with "Henven, Hell or Hoboken before Christmas" as their battle cry, had swept over the stoping ground, waded the Ouren and, through a rain of machine gun bullets, rushed up the slope on the other is side. It would have been as easy to stop an avalanche with a protesting hand.

Get G.H.Q. Permission

So many are the American homes represented in the A.E.F. that the regulation withholding passports from relatives of its members made it impossible for the Red Cross, Y.M.C.A., Salvation Army and K. of C. to enroll for service in France all the women workers they needed. These organizations therefore appealed to G.H.Q. for some arrangement by which the sisters of officers and enlisted men would be allowed to come here for work.

In response to that appeal, General Pershing recommended such a change to Washington. In making his recommended the selection of the 20 wooden steam anvillage should be allowed to come here for work.

SAVES HIS CORP

While the Hero Worshipper's Alive

This is the story of Private Burr Finkle. His Bentenant was able to get the details from him later only because Finkle labors under the impression that it is the story of Corporal Dan Carrol. Finkle is a freekled soldler of 20 and they used to cail him the Farmer, partly because he came from Middletown. N. Y. They used to kid him a good deal in Company K because it was so obvious that to Finkle the beginning and end of the world by within the boundaries of his own squad and especially because the sun rose and set with his corporal. "My corporal" was all that Finkle cared to know about the hierarchy of officers in the A.E.F. On the day before his regiment belped storm the forbidding heights beyond the Ourca, Finkle was obliged to listen to small facetions wagers being laid that his corporal would be taken prisoner before long. To which, while the company chuckled, he would reply darkly:

"Not while I'm alive."

Shamrocks Ahov!

No one was surprised when those live litter days that finally drove the Germans from the heights beyond the Ource found the major always in the very front, and it was taken as a matter of course that Burks should be there also.

Didn't Have to Be There
Other orderlies might have pointed out to him that he did not have to be there, that he was doing his full regulation duty in staying safely behind to look out for the old man's uniform and tend this equipment. No one had ordered him to the front, had they' He would lave looked at them in mild surprise and gone on about his business—at the major's elhow.

Many a message Burks carried along many a porilous path those days. Then many a porilous path the deadly streets of Sergy, were dropped in their tracks and some one was needed to go along the same a time when two messengers, trying to make their way to regimental mediquariers through the deadly streets of Sergy, were dropped in their tracks and some one was needed to go along the same path for more. Burks volunteered. The major sent him. It was his last errand.

Early in the morning after the regiment came out of the line, the major should be remained a horse and rode off over the hattlefield from which, by that time, all living Germans were gone. All day he searched, and then, near sundown, in an old apple orchard near a farmhouse, his search ended.

And they drew aside to leave the major standing alone with bared head by his orderly's grave.

GOVERNMENT IS BOSS OF ALL LABOR HIRING

ON WAYS IN OREGON Faithful Orderly Did Not Take Him Prisoner? Not Employment by All Private Concerns Now Strictly Regulated

By Came to THE STARS AND STRIPES]
AMERICA, Aug. 8.—All independent recruiting of labor throughout the United States has ceased, and labor is now under full Government control, exercised through superintendents of the United States Employment Service in 13 Federal districts, who in turn work through the State directors and community boards.

This plan restricts the private employment of common, labor, reduces the expensive and unnecessary labor turnovers, will draw on the non-essential industries for labor for necessary war work, and prevents the fransportation of any labor from community to community or out of States without Government approval. State quotas of labor will be prepared for each State. By Cable to THE STARS AND STRIPES]
